

CA' BOSCHI

TRADIZIONE ITALIANA DAL 1811

THE PAST

A Love Story Since 1811

In the distant year of 1811, within the walls of a farmhouse nestled in the heart of the Langhe region, a family embarked on a small-scale wine production venture intended solely for their family's consumption, bringing their products to their table. Over time, they decided to open themselves to collaboration with local small enterprises, a union of strengths and knowledge that gave rise to wines of extraordinary quality.

This beginning marks only the start of a long journey, which, up to the present day, has witnessed the passage of three generations.

THE PRESENT

The Cellar

Recently, the Ca'Boschi cellar has undergone a meticulous transformation, leaping from the 1800s to the present day.

Today, it stands as a contemporary space that houses entirely new equipment and steel wine barrels, with a production capacity of up to 6,000 bottles per hour.

Nevertheless, Ca'Boschi has never severed its connection to ancient techniques and traditions, with each of its production processes geared towards creating high-quality wines in close harmony with the surrounding land.

VALUES

Elegance Served

Ca'Boschi believes in the value of beauty, a beauty that transcends mere external aesthetics, one that can be seen, touched, tasted, and, above all, enjoyed. It is an inner and outer elegance, tied to the joy of crafting with care and in harmony with the environment, products meant to be shared.

For this reason, Ca'Boschi is committed to bringing this beauty to its customers' tables.

THE TERRITORY

Our Vineyards

The quality of Ca'Boschi wines is a result of the special location of its vineyards and the composition of the soil on which they extend: the locality of Mango.

Nestled in the splendid hills of the Langhe, recognized as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, it offers soil composed of clays, tuff, sand, and silt - a perfect mix that enables efficient drainage during heavy rains and safeguards the vines from drought during dry seasons.

SUSTAINABILITY AND INNOVATION

For environment and taste

Ca'Boschi distinguishes itself in the wine industry through a combination of sustainable practices, innovative technologies, and a profound respect for the environment. The collaboration with a team of enologist based in Oderzo, guarantees wine production without additives and chemical preservatives, meticulous consideration of organoleptic profiles, and the pursuit of new natural products.

Moreover, Ca'Boschi is dedicated to preserving the purity of its products by processing grapes from external contributors in its cellar without the use of chemical substances. At the end of the harvest, it always leaves something for the local wildlife: rabbits, deer, and other creatures from the area find a cluster of grapes specially reserved for them.
